Wednesday 5 November 2014

The Animal Task Force proudly announces their 4th Seminar:

Putting the i in livestock

Innovating for a productive and sustainable livestock sector

Wednesday 5 November 2014, Brussels

How does the European animal production sector innovate? How can we turn the excellent research being done in Europe into practice? How can industry and research together work on a more sustainable sector?

Innovation is essential to support a sustainable animal sector in Europe. The 4th Animal Task Force seminar “Putting the i in livestock – innovating for a productive and sustainable livestock sector” focuses on the implementation of animal science in practice, with a focus on how innovation is delivered.

The seminar aims to give a better understanding of industry's view on how to move research into practice, and to promote innovation-enhancing research in animal production. The seminar brings together stakeholders from industry, policy, research and societal organisations.
